THE THOMAS M. COOLEY LECTURES

THOMAS M. COOLEY was one of the leading figures in nineteenth-century American law and legal scholarship. He was a member of the first law faculty at the University of Michigan, which was assembled in 1859, and was appointed Dean of the Law Department in 1871. From 1864 to 1885 judicial service as a member of the Supreme Court of Michigan was added to his academic duties. Cooley is perhaps most frequently remembered today for his remarkably influential treatises, especially his works on Torts and Constitutional Limitations. In 1887 he was appointed first Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission by President Grover Cleveland.

The Thomas M. Cooley Lectureship was established by the faculty of The University of Michigan Law School in order to stimulate research and to communicate its results in the form of public lectures. The Lectureship is supported by the William W. Cook Endowment for Legal Research.

THE LECTURER

PHILIP B. KURLAND is Professor of Law in the University of Chicago. Although the range of his scholarly contributions is broad, he is most widely known as a distinguished student of American constitutional law and of the Supreme Court of the United States. He is also the Editor, and was the founder, of the influential Supreme Court Review, an annual volume of analysis and criticism of the Court's work contributed by leading public-law scholars. Professor Kurland was graduated from Harvard Law School in 1944, where he served as President of the Harvard Law Review. Following graduation he was employed as law clerk to Judge Jerome N. Frank of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, and later, to Mr. Justice Felix Frankfurter of the United States Supreme Court. He has been a member of the law faculties of Indiana University and Northwestern University, and a member of the University of Chicago faculty since 1953. Professor Kurland has engaged in private practice, served as attorney for the United States Department of Justice, as a consultant to the Economic Stabilization Agency, and was appointed Chief Consultant to the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Separation of Powers in 1967.

Among Professor Kurland's numerous writings are the following volumes: Jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States; Mr. Justice: The Supreme Court and the Constitution; Religion and the Law: Of Church and State and the Supreme Court.
